ENERGY CONSERVATION

Kalinga University demonstrates a strong commitment to achieving Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) through a range of institutional initiatives. In alignment with SDG 7 (Affordable and Clean Energy), the University promotes the use of renewable energy and environmentally responsible practices across the campus to reduce its carbon footprint. The campus has installed a 300 kWp Solar Power Plant, which has generated 125,946.60 kWh of electricity. A biogas plant generates renewable energy by converting organic waste into clean fuel. Sensor-based LED lighting systems minimise unnecessary electricity consumption. Additionally, the university conducts a Free Solar PV Installation Helper Training Program under the Green Jobs sector (NSQF Level 4) to enhance technical skills and create employment opportunities in the renewable energy sector.

Our Initiatives

SOLAR POWER SYSTEMS
ROOFTOP SOLAR ENERGY

The University has installed a 300 kWp Solar Power Plant, reducing dependence on conventional electricity sources. So far, it has generated 125,946.60 kWh of electricity, contributing towards lower carbon emissions and clean energy usage on campus. Solar panels are installed on rooftops and open spaces to maximise sunlight exposure and energy efficiency. The University actively promotes the usage of renewable energy through various skill development programs, research and awareness activities. This initiative not only lowered electricity expenses but also proved our commitment to adopting green technology.

BIOGAS PLANT

For efficient waste management, the University has installed a biogas plant on campus that converts organic and food waste generated from hostels and other campus areas into renewable energy.

The biogas produced is used as a clean fuel, reducing the dependence on conventional fuels. The plant also produces nutrient-rich slurry, an organic fertilizer used in gardening and landscaping purposes, promoting sustainable resource usage and a circular approach towards waste management.

Sensor-Based LED Lighting Systems

The university has installed sensor-based LED lighting systems in several campus buildings and common areas. These smart lighting systems automatically switch on or off based on human movement and ambient light conditions, reducing unnecessary lighting consumption while maintaining adequate lighting across the campus.

Centre of Excellence for Sustainable Transportation and Green Campus Initiatives

The institution has established a Centre of Excellence dedicated to promoting sustainable and innovative practices across campus. As a key initiative, an eBlu Electric Vehicle (EV) has been introduced to create awareness about eco-friendly and energy-efficient transportation systems. The university actively encourages staff members to adopt carpooling practices, helping to reduce fuel consumption, traffic congestion, and carbon emissions. Additionally, well-organized bus facilities are provided to ensure safe, reliable, and convenient commuting for staff. These combined efforts demonstrate the institution's strong commitment to environmental responsibility, energy conservation, and building a greener, more sustainable campus culture.

Water Conservation

Kalinga University follows sustainable water management practices to conserve and efficiently utilize water resources across the campus. The university has implemented a sewage treatment plant (STP) to treat wastewater, which is reused for gardening and landscaping purposes. Rainwater harvesting systems are installed to capture and store rainwater, helping recharge groundwater and reduce dependence on external water sources. Drip irrigation is used in green areas to minimize water wastage and ensure efficient irrigation of plants. Through these initiatives, the university promotes responsible water use, environmental sustainability, and awareness among students and staff about the importance of water conservation.

Water Sustainability at Kalinga University:

Sewage Treatment Plant (STP)

Kalinga University is committed to promoting water sustainability through efficient management and conservation practices. The university operates a modern Sewage Treatment Plant (STP) to treat wastewater generated from hostels, academic buildings, and residential quarters. The treated water is safely recycled and reused for gardening, landscaping, and irrigation across the campus, significantly reducing the demand for freshwater resources. In addition, the institution encourages responsible water use through awareness and monitoring systems. By adopting sustainable wastewater reuse practices, Kalinga University not only minimizes environmental impact but also contributes to long-term water conservation and supports the development of a green and eco-friendly campus environment.

Efficient Irrigation Practices at Kalinga University :

Drip irrigation

To enhance water-use efficiency, Kalinga University has implemented drip irrigation systems across its lawns, gardens, and green belts. This modern irrigation method delivers water directly to the plant roots through a controlled network of pipes and emitters, ensuring optimal water distribution while minimizing evaporation and runoff losses. By supplying precise amounts of water where it is needed most, the system significantly reduces water wastage and promotes healthier plant growth.

The use of drip irrigation also helps maintain the campus greenery in a sustainable manner. Through these initiatives, the university demonstrates its commitment to responsible water management and environmental sustainability.

KALINGA UNIVERSITY

Rainwater Harvesting at Kalinga University

Kalinga University has adopted rainwater harvesting as an important initiative to promote sustainable water management on campus. The university has installed rainwater harvesting structures that collect and channel rainwater from rooftops and open areas into recharge pits and storage systems.

This harvested rainwater helps replenish groundwater levels and reduces dependence on external water sources. The system also prevents water runoff and supports better utilization of natural rainfall.

By integrating rainwater harvesting with other conservation practices, the university ensures efficient water use throughout the year. These efforts reflect Kalinga University's commitment to environmental responsibility and the creation of a sustainable and eco-friendly campus.

Waste Management

To ensure a clean, sustainable, and environmentally responsible campus, Kalinga University follows a systematic approach towards waste management. The University manages different types of waste, such as solid, liquid, electronic, and biomedical waste, promoting recycling practices among students and staff members. These efforts align with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, specifically SDG 6 (Clean Water and Sanitation), SDG 11 (Sustainable Cities and Communities), SDG 12 (Responsible Consumption and Production), and SDG 13 (Climate Action).

Solid Waste Management

The University has established a well-structured, solid waste management system by partnering with authorized vendors who regularly collect garbage and paper waste from various collection points. These are strategically located with proper colour coding, like green for biodegradable waste, blue for recyclable waste, and yellow for other waste categories, ensuring systematic segregation of wastes. We strongly encourage everyone on the campus to use minimal plastic and promote the usage of eco-friendly products, such as paper cups and paper bags, to maintain a plastic-free campus environment.

To manage biodegradable waste, the University has established compost pits and vermicomposting units across the campus. Green waste generated from gardens and landscape areas, such as dry leaves, pruning residues, grass clippings, and other horticulture waste, is collected and processed through vermicomposting. In this process, organic waste is decomposed by earthworms and converted into nutrient-rich vermin-compost. This method speeds up the decomposition process and improves the quality of organic manure. Wet waste collected from the cafeteria and canteen is also combined with suitable horticulture waste and treated in composting and vermicomposting units to produce high-quality organic fertilizer. The compost produced from these processes is used to maintain the campus greenery, plantations, and gardens, supporting an eco-friendly and circular approach towards waste management.

Liquid Waste Management
To ensure 100% utilization of liquid waste on the campus, the University operates a Sewage Treatment Plant (STP) to treat wastewater for gardening and landscaping purposes. Greywater, collected from wash basins and hostel rooms, is collected in storage tanks and used for irrigation purposes. Low-flush cisterns and water-saving taps with controlled flow systems are installed in washrooms.

KALINGA UNIVERSITY
RAIPUR | INDIA

E-Waste Management

The University follows a Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) for the safe handling and disposal of hazardous laboratory and electronic waste to ensure they are handled carefully in a legally compliant manner.
Departments are strictly instructed to submit outdated or non-functional electronic devices, such as monitors, keyboards, printers, batteries, cables, and other laboratory equipment to the E-Waste Store. By following all safety norms, these items are further segregated according to their categories and kept for temporary storage and monitoring before final disposal.
To ensure the responsible disposal of waste, the University has signed MoUs with certified and authorised e-waste management vendors. The collected e-waste is periodically handed over to these authorised recyclers for scientific dismantling, recycling, and recovery of reusable materials. This prevents environmental and health hazards caused by toxic components such as mercury, lead, cadmium, and other harmful substances present in electronic devices.

Waste Recycling System

The faculty, staff, and students actively participate in the recycling initiatives, such as the segregation of recyclable and non-recyclable waste materials by dumping them carefully in different labelled bins. Continuous awareness programs are conducted to encourage active participation in recycling activities across the campus to reduce waste generation.

RAIPUR | INDIA

Biomedical Waste Management

Biomedical waste generated from the University's animal house and medical room is segregated at the point of origin to ensure safe handling and proper disposal. The waste is placed in colour-coded and labelled containers under different categories, such as infectious waste, sharps, and non-infectious materials.

It prevents cross-contamination and ensures compliance with biomedical waste management regulations. The process is monitored every day by trained personnel to maintain strict hygiene standards.

The collected waste is transported by authorised agencies for further treatment.

Title- "Training session on CPR & Emergency Responders"

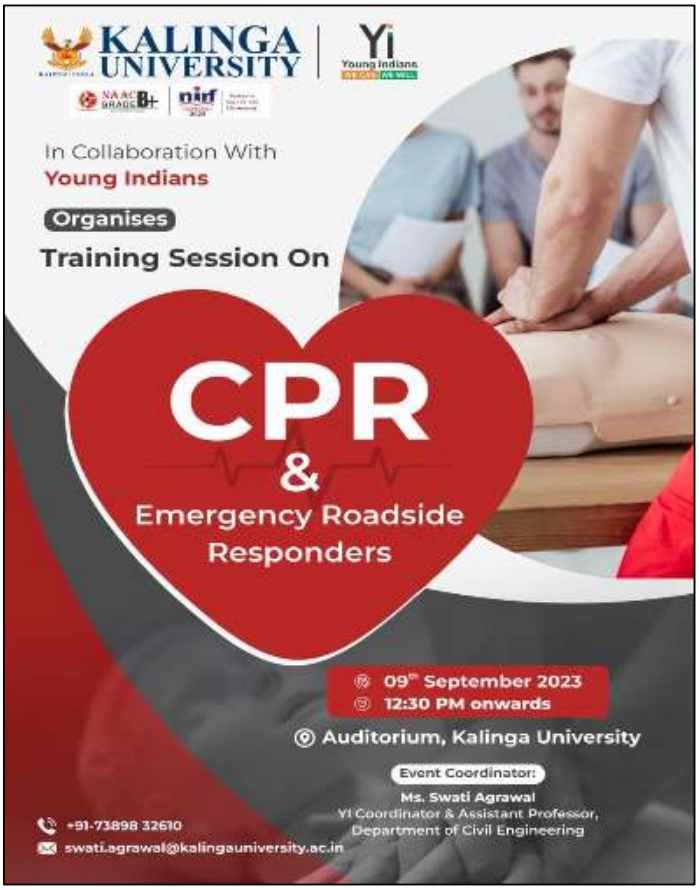
Date: 09th September 2023

Time of event: 12:30 pm onwards

Event Type: Offline

Venue: Auditorium, Kalinga University

Event Poster:



Objective of Program:

1. The objectives are to ensure the safety of human life, minimize further risk of danger, promote proper recuperation, and relieve agony and suffering of the casualty.
2. Providing CPR or attending to a choking person are two examples of life preservation in a first aid course. Maintaining air circulation in the body and clearing blocked airways while waiting for medics prevents other severe conditions, like brain damage and even a heart attack, this can happen within minutes.

3. Promotion of recovery includes using a first aid kit to help the person in need. This can involve washing, disinfecting, and bandaging a wound. In some cases, an antibiotic ointment can be used to promote healing.
4. Protecting an unconscious person includes safely removing them from a dangerous environment like a fire or busy road to safer conditions nearby.
5. The goal of protecting an unconscious person is to ensure their safety before medical help arrives.

Profile of Resource person (if applicable):

Resource Person 1:

Name: Dr Amitesh Agrawal

Designation: Counsultant & HOD of Emergency Health department

Organization: Shree Narayana Hospital, Devendra Nagar, Raipur

Resource Person 2:

Designation: Road Safety Chair

Organization: CII Young Indians, Raipur

Details of Program:

Session held by Dr Amitesh Agrawal. CPR training were instructor-led basic CPR training with video simulations of chest compression, basic CPR theoretical training with mannikins and video gaming to teach CPR to students (virtual reality). The students had good knowledge about the importance of CPR in clinical practice and stood average in knowing its indications and effectiveness. Knowledge of CPR is good among the students. Road accidents are a human tragedy. It involves high human suffering and monetary costs in terms of untimely deaths, injuries, loss of potential income, etc. Although we have undertaken initiatives and are implementing various road safety improvement programmes. However, skills of CPR have to be improved by current training programs at regular intervals. Their knowledge and practical approach have to be updated with the current guidelines in CPR. Lastly memento presented to the Resource persons & Vote of thanks by Mrs Swati Agrawal.

Yi Raipur has gifted 30 plants to the University for attendee students and in the last they have distributed few plants to the students.

In the Training session total 38 students participated from all over the departments & soon team will going to provide certificate to the participated students.

ii. Consider doing a first aid course, so that you will be able to manage if someone is injured or becomes ill.
iii. Some knowledge of basic first aid could mean the difference between life and death.
iv. Keep a range of first aid kits handy at home, in the car and at work.

Each lecture was accompanied by interactive group activities and practical training.

On the second day, the participants reviewed the previous day's content before delving into lectures on Understanding Violence in a Family Context, Psychological Support for Women facing Sexual Assault, and Ethical Principles in Counseling and Self-care. These informative sessions were followed by additional training exercises.

The workshop concluded with feedback and a valedictory session, which were presided over by Prof. Pratibha Chandra and Dr. Madhuri. NIMHANS took care of all the participants' accommodation, travel, and food arrangements.

As recognition of their active participation and engagement, all Lead Trainers received certificates from NIMHANS, and their valuable data will be shared with the State WCD for further advancement in this Crucial area.

Details of Program:

The Event started at 3:00 P.M. by Ms. Meenakshi Rani Agarwal and Ms. Harleen Kaur, Faculty of Law. The event was mainly focused to bring awareness regarding same sex couples and unrecognized areas relating to same sex couples.

Same-sex couples have come a long way in terms of societal acceptance and legal recognition, yet there remain various unrecognized areas that need addressing. While significant progress has been made in many parts of the world, there are still challenges that same-sex couples face, both on a personal and legal level. This article delves into some of these unrecognized areas and proposes ways to move forward toward a more inclusive and equal society.

Recognizing and addressing unrecognized areas in the lives of same-sex couples is essential for building a just and equal society. By taking steps such as legal reforms, public awareness campaigns, cultural sensitivity training, and international advocacy, societies can move forward toward greater inclusivity and acceptance. Only through concerted efforts can we ensure that same-sex couples enjoy the same rights and privileges as their heterosexual counterparts, regardless of cultural or societal context.

Lastly Vote of Thanks was given by Ms. Harleen Kaur, Faculty of Law.

Program Outcome:

Participants were able to analyze the legal provisions related to unrecognized areas relating to same- sex couples.

IIT Bombay, e-Yantra Lab Setup initiative [eLSI]: Confirmation and Important Instructions to Attend the Two Day Workshop at Indian Institute of Technology Bombay on 14th and 15th September 2023

Objective of Program:

The workshop aimed to provide participants with an in-depth understanding of embedded programming, buzzed programming, motion control, velocity control, LCD interface, and interrupt handling in the context of robotics.

Profile of Resource person /Organizing Agency (if applicable):

Name: Prof. Kavi Arya

Designation: Professor

Organization: Department of Computer Science, IIT(Bombay)

Organizing cell: e-Yantra cell, IIT(Bombay)

Program Schedule and Details of Program:

The e-Yantra Robotics Lab Workshop was conducted over a span of 2 days(14th-15th Sep. 2023), during which participants had the opportunity to delve into the fascinating world of robotics and embedded systems. During these 2 days span following topics have been covered:

1. Introduction to Embedded Programming

The workshop began with a comprehensive introduction to embedded programming. Participants were introduced to the fundamental concepts of embedded systems, including microcontrollers, sensors, and actuators. The basics of C programming for embedded systems were covered, providing a solid foundation for the subsequent topics.

2. Buzzed Programming

Buzzed programming, an intriguing concept in robotics, was introduced. Participants learned how to program and control robots to produce specific sound patterns and frequencies. This interactive session allowed attendees to experiment with creating unique sounds using robots.

3. Motion Control

Motion control, a critical aspect of robotics, was explored in-depth. Participants gained insights into various methods for controlling the movement of robotic platforms, including both theory and practical implementation. Topics included kinematics, dynamics, and control algorithms.

4. Velocity Control

Velocity control was another crucial aspect of the workshop. Attendees learned how to precisely control the velocity of robotic systems, a fundamental skill for tasks like navigation and object manipulation.

5. LCD Interface

The workshop also covered LCD interfacing with microcontrollers. Participants learned how to connect and program LCD displays for real-time feedback and interaction with their robots. This practical skill was a valuable addition to their repertoire.

6. Interrupt Handling

Interrupt handling, a critical aspect of real-time systems, was explained and demonstrated. Participants learned how to manage external events that can interrupt the normal execution of a program. This knowledge is crucial for building responsive and efficient robotic systems.

Benefits and Outcomes:

Potential benefits we can get by establishing an e-Yantra Lab at our university:

- Enhanced Learning:

  Emphasize how the lab will provide students with hands-on experience in robotics and embedded systems, improving their practical skills.

- Research Opportunities:

  Discuss how the lab will encourage faculty and student-led research in robotics, fostering innovation and contributing to the field.

- Industry Collaboration:

  Mention the potential for collaboration with industry partners, creating opportunities for internships, projects, and research funding.

Recommendations to Establish Robotics lab at Kalinga University:

(a) Budget to Establish Robotics lab:

1. Robotic Kit and Training charges:
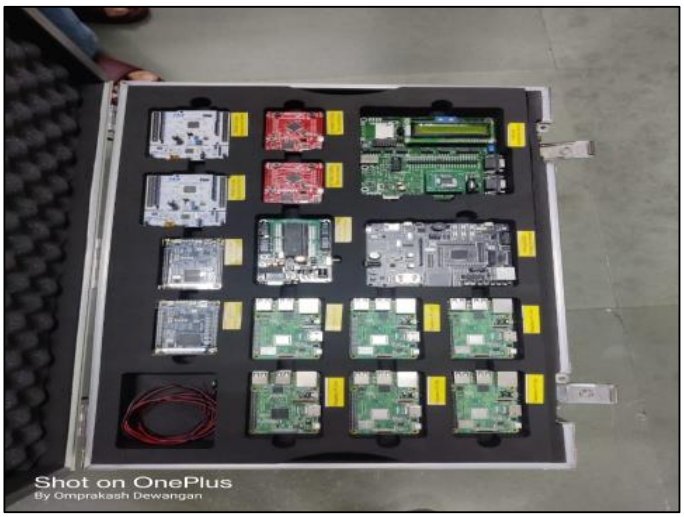
   - INR 50000 (for training College Purchase Equipment from vendor in market)
   - INR 250000 (For training & equipment : e-Yantra provides a " lab in a box")



2. Computer System

No. of System Required	Cost
15	4.5 Lakh

(a) Potential Funding Sources:

Initially University has to purchase the above mentioned items either from e-Yantra cell of IIT Bombay or directly through the vendors. Our recommendation is to purchase it directly from IIT otherwise it will be very difficult to arrange recommended microprocessor kit for training.

(c) Sustainability:

By conducting short term training program for the college as well as school going students on chargeable basis we can generate revenue. The workshop not only equipped participants with essential skills but also fostered a sense of curiosity and enthusiasm for robotics and embedded systems.

The combination of theoretical knowledge and hands-on experience make the workshop highly valuable for all attendees. The workshop will include several hands-on sessions where participants will get the opportunity to apply the concepts they learn. These practical exercises will allow attendees to program and control robotic platforms using the concepts covered in the lectures. The hands-on sessions will be guide by experienced instructors who will provide valuable insights and assistance

(d) Proposed Fee:

Fees		Duration of training and Timing
For College Students	For School Students	5 days(Daily 3 Hr.)
1000/-	500/-

Details of program:

Skill development in education refers to the process of acquiring and enhancing competencies, abilities, and expertise that enable individuals to effectively navigate academic, professional, and personal challenges. Micro Teaching is a teaching skills refining method involving short, focused lessons delivered to small groups for the purpose of improving specific teaching skills through feedback and reflection.

The microteaching workshop at Kalinga University in Naya Raipur, Chhattisgarh, from April 1st to April 9th, 2024, was a special event where teachers learned new skills to become better at their jobs. Each day, experts taught them different things like how to start a lesson, make it interesting, use examples, ask good questions, write neatly on the board, encourage students, and explain things clearly. It was like a colorful picture made by different people with their knowledge and experience. At the beginning and end of the workshop, there were small celebrations to show how much everyone had learned and grown together. It was a happy and memorable time for everyone involved. The resource persons are in this workshop-

Here's the updated schedule with resource persons assigned to each day along with the micro teaching skills they covered:

Title- Smart Garbage Monitoring System in Government Schools

Date: 3/10/2023

Time of event: 11:30 am to 12; 30 pm

Event Type: Offline

Event Poster:-

Objective of Program:- NSS Unit of Kalinga University, Raipur has adopted five villages in Raipur District, namely Palaud, kotni, Tandul, Kuhera, KotaraBhatha. Government schools often struggle with maintaining clean and hygienic environments. Improper garbage disposal can lead to unclean surroundings, attracting pests and causing health issues for students and staff. Implementing a smart garbage monitoring system in government schools can have several benefits and impacts, leading to improved hygiene, sustainability, and cost-efficiency. With real-time monitoring and alerts, the system can ensure that garbage bins are emptied promptly, reducing the risk of litter and unhygienic conditions.

Details of Program. On 3rd October 2023, Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) and National Service Scheme (NSS), Kalinga University visited to Government Middle School, Kuhera, Block Arang. Interacted with class 6 to class 8 students of the school and briefed about the working and use of smart dustbin. Live Demonstration was also given to the students regarding the use of the smart garbage. Finally the dustbin was handed over to the principal of the school with all the accessories and also informed the precautions to be taken during the use of Smart Garbage.

Program Outcome: - Implementing a smart garbage monitoring system in government schools can have several benefits and impacts, leading to improved hygiene, sustainability, and cost-efficiency

Date: 23-08-2023

Time of event: 03:15 PM

Event Type: Offline

Venue: Kalinga University Auditorium

Objective of Program:

- To educate students on how to operate Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) during elections.

Details of Program:

Kalinga University, in collaboration with the Election Commission successfully organized an awareness and training event aimed at educating students on how to operate Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) during elections. The event took place on 23rd August 2023 at the university campus in Naya Raipur.

The event featured esteemed guest speakers, including experienced election officers Shri Rahul Indulkar, Master trainer Shri Vinay Agrawal and Shri Gajju Lal Sahu (Patwari) who shared their expertise on the functioning of EVMs and the importance of effective voting. With the forthcoming elections on the horizon, the initiative was particularly beneficial for the first semester students who will be casting their votes for the very first time.

The event commenced with an insightful presentation by election officers, shedding light on the significance of participating in the democratic process and making an informed choice. Patwaris, known for their grassroots-level administrative knowledge, imparted practical training on how to operate the EVM machines seamlessly.

One of the highlights of the event was the hands-on experience offered to the attending first semester students. A fully-functional EVM machine, provided by the Election Commission, was set up for students to practice casting their votes. This practical exposure not only familiarized them with the EVM technology but also boosted their confidence in participating actively in the upcoming elections.

The Registrar of Kalinga University Dr. Sandeep Gandhi expressed gratitude to the Election Commission for their collaboration and stated, "Empowering our students with the knowledge and skills to engage in the democratic process is a crucial step towards creating responsible citizens.
