We did the London Scotland Ireland tour and had Forum herself as our tour leader. She is a very well informed guide and is approachable throughout the tour. She helped my mom when she fell down and even offered her own shoes to her. The food was tasty, freshly prepared daily, more suited for the Gujarati taste buds. Hotels and logistics provided were also of standard quality. Restroom breaks were provided throughout the tour at nice and hygienic locations. This was equally important as we had a mix of kids and senior citizens in the tour. We came back with amazing memories.

The itinerary was well-paced One highlight was definitely London eye We also appreciated the flexibility of the tour, which allowed us to adjust our pace and explore different places it was a fantastic experience. ★★★★★

We recently completed a 12-day group tour of London with Forum World Wide, and it was an absolutely fantastic and memorable experience from start to finish. Our group consisted of 36 people, and every single one of us felt completely comfortable and well taken care of throughout the journey. The camaraderie within the group was wonderful, with everyone being friendly, cooperative, and adaptable, which added to the overall enjoyment of the trip. What truly stood out was the personal involvement of Forum Ma'am, the Director of Forum World Wide. It was truly commendable to see a company director so personally invested in the comfort and experience of each guest. She was present throughout the tour, playing the role of not just an organizer but a hands-on tour manager. Her dedication, energy, and sense of responsibility were remarkable. From managing the itinerary and logistics to addressing individual concerns, she handled every task with grace and professionalism—without any hesitation or delegation. Her presence gave us immense confidence and a sense of assurance. Another highlight of the tour was the excellent food arrangements. As a group with diverse dietary needs, including Jain meals, we were thoroughly impressed with the quality, taste, and consistency of the Indian food provided. It's not easy to maintain such standards while traveling internationally, but Forum World Wide exceeded expectations in this regard. Every meal was thoughtfully curated and served fresh, which made us feel right at home even while abroad. Overall, this tour was more than just sightseeing—it was an experience filled with care, joy, and personal connection. Forum World Wide truly lived up to its name by delivering world-class service with a personal touch. I would wholeheartedly recommend them to anyone looking for a professional, reliable, and heartfelt travel experience. Looking forward to many more journeys with them in the future!

TCS Explanation for Indian Travellers (Resident Indians)

TCS is not an extra charge by us. It's a government-mandated tax that gets collected on foreign tour packages.

How it works:

- Up to ₹10,00,000 per financial year: TCS is 5%
- Above ₹10,00,000 per financial year: TCS becomes 20% on the additional amount

The good part:

TCS is fully adjustable when you file your income tax return.

You either get it back as a refund or it gets adjusted against your tax liability like normal advance tax.

TCS Explanation for NRI Travellers

For NRIs, the rules shift a bit depending on which bank account they are paying from.

If payment is made from an Indian bank account (NRE/NRO/Indian savings):

- TCS will be applicable exactly like resident Indians.
- You can claim this TCS while filing your ITR in India (if you file).

If payment is made from a foreign bank account (USD/GBP/AED etc.) directly to us:

TCS is NOT applicable because the payment does NOT fall under India's Liberalised Remittance Scheme (LRS).

This is the simplest way to keep NRIs TCS-free:

Pay directly from an international account.

Traveller Type	Payment Source	TCS Applicable?	Rate
Indian Resident	Indian Bank A/c	Yes	5% up to ₹10L, 20% above ₹10L
NRI	Indian NRE/NRO/Savings	Yes	5% up to ₹10L, 20% above ₹10L
NRI	Foreign Bank A/c	No	0%
