A report on the workshop attended by the Hindi teachers on the topic – Challenges on Teaching Hindi.

The workshop started with the discussion on the challenges that the language teachers faced in the classroom.

We, being teachers, have to be the textbooks in the classroom and somehow we should be beyond the textbooks. As the facilitators, we have to encourage our students not to learn Hindi as a subject.

First and foremost thing, we need to work on their listening skills. It would in turn enhance their critical thinking, their communicative skills and make them correlate their learning with other subjects. As teachers we must not divert from our topic.

We should do teaching in such a way that it helps students to understand the concept easily and it must be long-lasting. Through various activities this can be possible. Activities like: - report on media, poster making, comic strips, formation of calendar etc.

Last but not the least, the school could organize more of such workshops within the school premises as it would not only act as an incentive for the teachers but also brush up their talent and competency.
