Book Review's Description:

The Panchatantra is one of the greatest contributions of India to lift world literature . It was written in Sanskrit by a teacher named Vishnu Sharma in the 5th century. It was translated to Telugu by Paravasthu Chinnayyasuri. Panchathanthram is a collection of shortstories written by Vishnu Sharma taught many of the virtues and principles of morality necessary to human life.. Some of the names of the stories are“: The Monkey and the Crocodile”, “The Foolish Lion the Clever Rabbit, and The Wise Minister’s Advice” etc.

A few morals given from the Panchathanthram stories are:

- Do not misunderstand others, try to maintain friendships.
- (Attached part) The fact cannot be hidden for long.
- Friends make life perfect.
- Mental strength and deceit are stronger than evil nature.
- Friends should not be deceived and should be vigilant at all times.
- Decisions should not be made immediately.

Creating awareness about the values through the best Indian stories by S.N.L. Pavani, MSCA-III.
