

Title: IT Developer

Role Summary/Purpose:

The IT Developer will be responsible for development and support of Web based applications and delivering high-quality solutions. The candidate would be part of a major technology transformation team responsible for moving towards cloud platform in micro services architecture using Spring Frameworks, in memory data grid, responsive design etc...

Essential Functions / Responsibilities:

- Build new web solutions/platforms and enhancements, working closely with requirements analysts, testers, and the customer in an agile development practice
- Develop functional and technical specifications from business requirements
- Responsible for the development of mission critical web applications / services
- Help create project estimates and plans. Represent engineering team in project meetings and solution discussions
- Ensure application quality and adherence to performance requirements
- Responsible for documentation, code reuse, re-factoring and design patterns standards compliance
- Ensure of internally developed applications are built with high standards of availability, scalability, and extensibility
- Work closely with an experienced staff comprising Synchrony resources
- Communicate the status of build projects and other initiatives to stakeholders and leadership
- Keep abreast of emerging technologies while maintaining proficiency in existing technologies

Required Qualifications:

- Bachelor's degree in Computer Science/Engineering or Information Technology
- Hands-on experience on Java and JEE technologies including frameworks like Spring, and python
- Ability to work with Ant, Maven, ECLIPSE/STS, GIT, SVN, Jenkins or other similar technologies.
- Hands-on in Front end technologies like jQuery, Angular JS, Java Script and HTML
- Good understanding of RDBMS
- Superior oral and written communication, analytical, and problem-solving skills