

How To Write 5 Paragraph Essays

It is true that writing services are quite common and may pop up in any class. It's difficult for students to handle these assignments along with fulfilling other responsibilities, which is why they often look to hire an expert.

Writing 5 Paragraph Essay By Yourself

Writing all types of essays requires some understanding of its format and topic, but it becomes extremely difficult for students to write a 5-paragraph essay convincingly. To handle things well, you simply need to take care of a few important things. For instance:

1. Write the first paragraph with points that quickly grab your reader's attention. Use this introductory paragraph as a hook and make sure to avoid all types of boring statements in this paragraph. You should also introduce your topic here and express your opinion in the form of a thesis statement.
2. The body of your essay will have at least three paragraphs. In each paragraph, you should say something about your main idea and then offer evidence to support that idea. You will have to take care of the fact that you don't repeat the same points in three paragraphs – talk about different aspects in each paragraph and use relevant examples and evidence.
3. The fifth and last paragraph will offer a conclusion of what your different points say. In other words, you have to summarize all your points that you have raised in three body paragraphs. Don't forget to re-assert your main idea/thesis statement in this paragraph.